5. Standing Committee Reports

- Fellowship Committee- Preetha Krishnamoorthy
 - Mission statement of the CPEG Fellowship program:
 - The mission of the Canadian Pediatric Endocrine Group Fellowship Program is the promotion and the development of Pediatric Endocrinologists.

Canadian Pediatric Endocrine Group

Groupe canadien d'endocrinologie pédiatrique

- Priority will be given to those who plan to pursue a career within Canada.
- By providing salary and/or operating funds for training, the awardees will be enabled to expand their research, pedagogical, clinical, and/or advocacy skills for children with endocrine disorders.
- Sponsors:
 - Continued generous support from: Eli Lilly, Novo Nordisk, Pfizer, EMD Serono, Eli Lilly
 - Total funding received this year: $280,000
- 2 CPEG fellowships awarded
 - Salary stipend remained at $80,000, last increased in 2021
 - Salary is similar to the resident agreements for the PGY- level across the country, although there are some differences between provincial salaries of residents.
 - Congratulations to Joshua Stanley- fertility preservation for transgender and gender diverse youth: development and assessment of a patient centered e learning module, University of Toronto
 - Congratulations to Supraja Rengan – Weight stigma in the pediatric diabetes population: evaluating patient level factors and diabetes related outcomes. University of British Columbia
- Thank you to the 2023 Fellowship Committee Members:
 - Preetha Krishnmoorthy (Chair)
 - Teresa Pinto

Canadian Pediatric Endocrine Group
Groupe canadien d'endocrinologie pédiatrique

- CPEG 2023 Conference registration:
 - Highest registration ever- 216 registrants (excluding 53 industry), 163 attendees
 - 2020 was 179 (last in person meeting)
 - Hybrid option was considered, but concerns about attendance
 - a. Costs would be similar for hybrid
 - More satellite symposia this year than in past in person meetings. Only allowing 3 satellite symposiums
 - a. Due to in person and space
 - b. Limits on number of platinum sponsors
 - c. Cheri Deal noted concerns that the space for symposium was restricted this year, acknowledged. CPEG meeting is relatively small for hotel standards, therefore restrictions on space availability.
 - Sponsorship – excellent during 2 virtual years, a bit less this year but beyond last in person (2020) meeting. 2023 sponsorship $170,000, 2020 sponsorship was $155,000. Small deficit predicted.
- Abstract criteria:
 - Any CPEG member can submit an abstract (limit of 2 per first author)
 - All medical trainees (e.g. medical students, pediatrics residents, and non-Canadian-based Pediatric Endocrinology Fellows/Subspecialty Residents) who wish to submit an abstract to the CPEG Scientific Meeting, must first apply to be a CPEG Associate member (free).
 - Canadian-based Endocrine Fellows and Subspecialty Residents are not required to have a CPEG full Active Member as a co-author or supervisor on their submitted abstract.
 - For other trainees, at least one of the abstract co-author(s) must be a full CPEG Active member in good standing.
- Poster abstracts are open to all, but oral abstracts are only open to trainees (all types), or those who are in their first year of training
- John Bailey award ($500) will be given for the best oral abstract, and only those who are Canadian-based Endocrine Fellows and Subspecialty Residents are eligible for this award
 - New this year, role of trainee in project was requested in submission
- Thank you to the abstract reviewers: Josephine Ho, Mark Inman, Rachel Scott, Robert Stein
- Thank you to the CPEG 2022 John Bailey Award (oral abstract) judges: Beth Cummings, Andrea Ens, Mary Jetha

7. Advocacy Grant

- Planning and partnership development for a scalable intervention to prevent diabetes ketoacidosis in children at diabetes diagnosis in Canada, Rayzie Shulman
- Concerning trend for increasing DKA rates in children in Canada
- Aim to develop an intervention that is evidence based, builds on experience, theory involved, scalable
- Completed- review and grey literature search,

Canadian Pediatric Endocrine Group
Groupe canadien d'endocrinologie pédiatrique

- Stakeholder consultation- parent/caregivers, adolescents, educators, administrators, Canadian researchers, international researchers, beyond type 1 media experts
- Preliminary results- interventions (posters/magnets, take home cards, social media, coalition of volunteers), challenges / opportunities (little evaluation, opportunity. Narrow focus (target age), target public and providers, integrate with existing diabetes awareness programs, lack of priority for a relatively rare condition)
- Next steps- complete consultations, data analysis, co-design intervention with stakeholders, grant for feasibility pilot

8. Collaborative Projects/Updates/Discussions

- HHS CPSP Surveillance
 - Paul Ryan (Toronto), Jill Hamilton, Liz Sellers
 - Detect and analyse all cases of HHS in children across Canada
 - Launching in the next 6 months, 3 years
 - Melanie Henderson discussed challenges with laws in Quebec – case report forms cannot be filled out without individual ethics, need institutional ethics in academic centres. So that the pediatricians can report.
 - Dr. Ahmed- similar concerns with BC
 - Dr. Wherrett discussed current CIHR effort for national REB, being led by MICYRN
 - To run a CPSP study- need health Canada approval and national REB
 - Some sites in Alberta also need REB locally.
- ADDAM
 - Constantin Polychronakos
 - Montreal Children's – purpose to discover new monogenic diabetes genes in children with t1dm
 - Optimize screening algorithm for monogenic aetiologies in t1dm clinics 2020-2026- CIHR study
 - Inclusion: diabetes diagnosed as type 1 before age 25, exclusion: known Positivity for T1D antibodies
 - Accepting new centres. Thank you to Cheo for participation.

- Paperwork and licensing- need at least 2 months
- iCARE — Paul Ryan
 - Survey to understand barriers and facilitators to use of diabetes kidney disease tools by pediatric diabetes care providers
 - Will be circulated to active CPEG members
 - Contacts: Brandy Wicklow (bwicklow@hsc.mb.ca), Alison Dart (adart@hsc.mb.ca)
- CPSP study: ONH National Surveillance — Supraja Rengan (fellow). PIs Dr. Brandy Wicklow & Shazhan Amed,
 - Description: A one-year surveillance study developed in collaboration with CPSP to report new cases of optic nerve hypoplasia (ONH) and septo-optic dysplasia (SOD) in Canadian children. Data captured will include patient clinical characteristics, age at diagnosis, evidence and timing of associated pituitary hormone dysfunction (PHD) and clinical and biochemical testing relevant to the diagnosis and associated features. The aim of this study is to identify the minimum incidence of ONH and SOD at a national level, and to describe the clinical phenotype of those children. This information will be used to inform future screening and follow up guidelines to improve the care of these children.
 - Please report your cases, surveillance ends November 2021- 2022
 - 42 cases reported only 15 completed and met criteria
 - Dr. Ahmed indicates that under-reporting concerns present
 - Dr. Hamilton indicates that the online form is difficult-
 - Dr. Sellers suggests that the paper copies of the forms be posted and sent to site investigators at beginning of CPSP projects to enhance reporting and data completion
 - Sites/co-investigators: Caroline Zuijdwijk (Ottawa), Elizabeth Rosolowsky (Alberta), Ereny Baddilious (McMaster), John Mitchell (McGill), Munier Nour (Saskatchewan), Robert Stein (Western Ontario), Rachel Scott (Montreal), Irena Hozjan (Toronto), Rebecca Perry (Calgary), Teresa Pinto (Dalhousie), Ian Clark & Mubeen Rafay (Manitoba)
